DAYTON STRUCK BY MILLION DOLLAR STORE FIRE

AMERICAN SAVINGS BUILDING AND HOME STORE ARE GUTTED

Entire Business Section Threatened By Sunday Night Blaze

(By United Press)
DAYTON, Feb. 15.—Damage estimated at a million dollars resulted from a fire that destroyed the Home Store building and caused serious damage to the American Savings Building and threatened to destroy Dayton's main business section late Sunday night.

Fire was discovered at 11:50 o'clock Sunday night in the Home Store and spread quickly to the American Savings Building, as well as all buildings on the east side of Main St., from Third to N. Market St.

Every available piece of fire fighting apparatus and every fireman in the city were called out to check the conflagration, which for a time threatened to get out of control. Complete stock of the Home Store was destroyed in the blaze, damage to this store being estimated at $400,000, partly covered by insurance. Adler and Childs Store, saved from the flames by a fire wall, was a heavy loser through smoke and water. Its loss is estimated at $50,000. Damage to the American Savings building is computed to have reached $100,000. Other stores damaged in the fire are: Reed Shoe Store, 16 S. Main St., $15,000; United Woolen Mills, 8 S. Main, $5,000; Zosar's Confectionery, 10 S. Main, $5,000; United Cigar Store, $1,000; Sarnoff-Irving Hat Shop, 18 S. Main, $10,000; Todd Pharmacy, 6 E. Third St., $5,000; and Coney Island Restaurant, $500.

HOUSEWIVES WILL LEARN MEAT CUTS

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—Housewives, who have difficulty in telling one cut of meat from another will have ten chances to learn in Columbus this week.

A series of ten demonstrations in meat identification and quality is scheduled for Columbus this week by the animal husbandry extension specialists of the Ohio State University.

Federal surveys show that of 17 different steaks, the average housewife can identify only three; of eight kinds of roasts she can identify two, or less.

Determining quality, as well as the cut of meat, will come in for demonstration and discussion at the meetings. The meat and cutters will be provided by local packers and retailers.

BERGDOLL ARREST MAY BE "FRAME-UP"

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Arrest in Baden, of the American draft dodger, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, charged of immoral behavior, was deemed today in some quarters, an attempt to get Germany to deport him.

While the extradition treaty between America and Germany is not yet in effect it is pointed out that Germany, if it desired, could take him to its borders and order him not to return. It was suspected the arrest might be linked with a magazine or newspaper "enterprise" maneuver or perhaps be engineered by American ex-service men who have long desired to "get" the dodger.

Suspicion was given some support when Bergdoll himself charged that he was the victim of a "frame up." He denied all knowledge of the misconduct charged against him.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR ARREST OF EARL OF GRAVEN ON CHARGE

Nobleman Will Be Asked About Admission Of Guilt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A warrant for the arrest of the Earl of Craven was issued by Secretary of Labor Davis this morning.

Robt. Carl White, Assistant Secretary of Labor announced the action which was taken in response to the request of Commissioner of Immigration Curran, at Ellis Island, who desires to question the Earl about his relations with the Countess of Cathcart, ordered deported for "moral turpitude."

The warrant was signed by Assistant Secretary of Labor Hubert and telegraphed to Curran. It will be turned over to a federal officer for service on the earl.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Departure of the Earl of Craven from the United States may settle pre- maturely the question as to whether the government has "raised a double moral standard" in exclusion of aliens.

After Commissioner of Immigration Curran had asked a warrant for arrest of Lord Craven, it was reported the Earl had left for Canada rather than face investigation on the same charges of "moral turpitude" which caused the exclusion of Vera, Countess of Cathcart.

It was openly conceded by Commissioner Curran that Lord Craven could have avoided deportation merely by denying an immoral relationship with the Countess. But the code of gentlemen the world over has apparently been followed.

Countess Cathcart was in trouble for having told the truth of the love affair which had its flowering in a Rhodesian ranch and honor demanded that Lord Craven leave the country voluntarily or else appear for investigation.

Thus young Lord Craven who gave a leg to the allied cause during the war, lived up to the motto of the Craven arms—"Virtues in action constiti" (Courage rests in action.)

FOUR ESCAPE DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 15.—Turning over twice in mid-air in their car's crazy plunge, four persons miraculously escaped death early today when they plunged over a 100 foot embankment. The car landed on the B. & O. Railroad tracks.

The accident was the second of this nature during the past week.

James Fallon, 44, owner, who drove the car over the embankment, was arrested on a charge of careless driving. Three other occupants of the car, a man and two women, had disappeared when police arrived.

When police, notified of the accident, arrived, they found Fallon sitting on the running board of the wrecked car.

THREE KILLINGS IN CHICAGO OVER WEEK END; CHURCH IS BOMBED

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—While legal machinery is being rapidly assembled to deport undesirable aliens three killings were perpetrated in Chicago over the week end and a bomb explosion shattered the windows of the Santa Maria Church.

Mrs. Antonette Gliardi, a divorcee, was awakened in the early hours of the morning by a knock on her back door. She opened the door and was shot and killed.

Police are looking for a former suitor.

Thomas Christensen, a city detective, shot and killed William of the outskirts of the city. Wawrynklewicz, an inn keeper, John Glenn, part owner of a sort drink parlor, was shot and killed by Virgil Litzinger, a minor political leader.

The worshippers in the Santa Maria Church were disturbed yesterday when costly stained glass windows were shattered by a bomb exploded in a nearby Chinese laundry.

While crime was rampant during the week end, officials were busily engaged in organization to deport the alien gunmen. Six immigration inspectors were promised to the Chicago officials in a campaign to clear the city of Sicilian gangsters.

PIKESVILLE, Ky., Feb. 15.—Eastern Kentucky today took stock of the damage caused by cloudbursts which swept this section over the week-end, flooding homes, taking a known toll of six lives and causing apparently a loss of $200,000.

At Coaldale, a small mining village near here, a virtual torrent swept through the streets, uprooting trees and earth, flooding homes and crushing flimsy structures. Six persons perished at Coaldale. Violent electrical displays, accompanied the downpour.

The dead, all of whom were drowned, are:

Fred Stiltner and wife, formerly of Jane, Va.; Essie Sykes, 14; Robert Sanders, 9; Lewis Likely, negro and his 11-months-old son.

FATE OF MEXICANS BLAMED FOR DEATHS IN HANDS OF JUDGE

Crowds Visit Tia Juana In Spite Of Trials

(By United Press)
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 15.—The fate of seven Mexicans accused of first degree murder in connection with the "shame suicides" of the four members of the Thomas Petet family, rested today with Federal Judge Sam Urias.

The Mexican jurist may rule the men guilty or order a trial by jury. If the verdict is guilty it is expected some of the men will be ordered summarily executed by a firing squad.

If the trial is to be before a jury, it will very likely be held at Mexicali, in "justice" to the defendants who claim there is prejudice against them in Tia Juana.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 15.—Although charges which may call out the firing squad before the week end, hang over the Chief of Police of Tia Juana and six other Mexicans, Tia Juana was thronged with tourists Sunday from the American side who engaged in revels lasting until well into this morning.

Many were drawn to the border resort when they heard of threats to close it, anxious to have "one more fling" before the west's chief oasis might be wiped out. While the gaiety was in full swing, information charging the chief of police and six others with responsibility for the "shame suicide" of T. M. Petet, his wife and two daughters was on file.

INDIANA KLAN WILL SECEDE IS CLAIMED

KOKOMO, Ind., Feb. 15.—Secession of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan from the national organization loomed as a possibility today, following a stormy convocation attended by 3,000 Klansmen.

A call was sent out after the meeting for another gathering of Klansmen here next Sunday and all Klansmen in the state were asked to send representatives.

In the meantime a new constitution and organization rules will be drafted and the name of the Klan and allegiance to the national body may be cast aside entirely.

The Indiana Klan organization, which enrolled a tremendous membership under the leadership of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon, now serving a life sentence for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer, has been at outs with the national officers of the hooded order for many months, it was learned.

TRUAX MAINTAINS SILENCE IN PROBE OF CONCESSIONS

Agriculture Head To Appear Before Tracy In Investigation

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—Maintaining strict silence, State Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, was to appear before State Auditor Joseph L. Tracy today as Tracy resumed his investigation of alleged irregularities in the sale of concessions at the last state fair.

The investigation which has revealed what Tracy characterizes as "efforts of concessionaires to exchange campaign contributions for concessions, centers around a $200 contribution by the Greater Sheasley shows, after receiving the riding devices concession at the fair.

Truax has been subpoenaed to tell what he knows of the contribution. The money, according to Tracy was laid on the desk of State Fair Manager G. R. Lewis, who turned it over to Gov. Donahy. The governor returned it to the donor.

State examiners today were scrutinizing other concession contracts and Truax will be asked to show all records in connection with the case, Tracy said. Complete records, covering all purchases and sales, may be introduced.

Tracy spent the week-end out of town "interviewing certain persons who may have knowledge of other contributions, he said.

FARM INSTITUTE IS WELL ATTENDED

The annual Jefferson Twp. Farmers' Institute, held at the Bowersville centralized school February 8 and 9, was well attended and was voted one of the most successful in years.

AERIAL EXPRESS LAUNCHED BY FORD

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 15.—An aerial variation of the old "pony express" was inaugurated here today when the first contract air-mail plane left the Ford Airport on time at 10:40 a.m. for Cleveland.

A fleet of army pursuit planes from Selfridge Field near here escorted the first plane over the southern horizon.

The plane was the "Maiden Dearborn No. 1," first all-metal airplane manufactured by the Ford Motor Company, and was piloted by Lawrence Fritz, a regular Ford Air Transport Service pilot.

EXPLOSION IN OHIO SHAFT CATCHES 600 BUT MOST ESCAPE

Ten of Twenty Four In- jured Thought Serious

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS, Feb. 15.—One miner was killed and twenty-four injured, ten seriously, when an explosion wrecked the main entrance of the Cleveland and Western Company's new mine at Powhattan, Belmont County this morning, according to information received by the state bureau of mines here.

Six hundred workmen entered the mine for the day shift at 7 a. m., the bureau was advised. All of them, with the exception of those injured, escaped unhurt, reports to the bureau declared.

Ten of the injured have been sent to Bellaire hospitals, the bureau was advised. Jerome Watson, head of the division of mines, has left for the scene.

Before leaving Watson said telephone reports attributed the blast to a short circuit in the main shaft. Fire followed the explosion but was quickly extinguished he said.

BELLAIRE, O., Feb. 15.—A terrific explosion wrecked the main entrance of the Cleveland and Western Company's new mine at Powhattan, twenty miles south of here this morning.

Six hundred miners entered the diggings at 7 a. m. The explosion occurred fifty-five minutes later. One body horribly burned has been taken from the pit and twenty-four miners, all severely burned, were led from the shaft.

Houses surrounding the mine shaft were rocked by the blast. Nearby residents said as the explosion occurred, flames shot a hundred feet into the air.

The workmen employed in the mine have been on strike, they only returned to work today. Only meager reports of the explosion have been received here.

A mine rescue car bearing life-saving equipment, physicians and nurses left Bellaire for the scene at 9 a. m.

The injured are being brought to Bellaire by train. All were too severely burned to give a coherent account of the blast.

Powhattan is in an isolated mining section, the only outlet being branch lines over which coal trains and locals ply.

Rugged hills, capped with coal tips, surround the little town.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 15.— Meager reports of a mine explosion at Powhattan, O., reached here today with an appeal for towns in this section to send am- bulances to the scene.

All telephone lines to Powhattan were fired up, presumably as a result of the explosion.

The mine, which normally employs about 700 men was closed down last week by a strike protest of a newly inaugurated policy of distributing pay to the miners by check. The trouble was temporarily adjusted and last night the first men entered the mine to prepare it for resumption of work today.

SALM WILL ATTEMPT TO SEE HIS CHILD

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15.—Count Ludwig Salm Von Hoogstraeten's boisterous row over a father's privileges, which reverberated the social colony here, and which ended abruptly on Salm's first visit with his infant son, was renewed today with a legal aspect.

Aided by Attorney Willis Baruch, Count Salm hoped to defeat his father-in-law, Colonel H. H. Rogers and enjoy a private romp with 18-months' old Peter Constantin Salm.

Lack of privacy during the visit yesterday pricked the Count's honor and a moment after he had kissed his little brown-eyed, gold-haired son, Salm was embroiled in an argument with a detective sent by Rogers to guard the child.

FARMERS TAKING ADVANTAGE OF MEET

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—More than 50,000 Ohio farmers have attended the annual Farmers' Week, sponsored each year here by the Ohio State University. Attendance at the fourteenth annual Farmers' Week brought the total to 54,661.

Week brought to records in the office of Dean Alfred Vivan, of the college of agriculture.

Attendance at the 1926 Farmers' Week was the fifth best in the 14 years, despite unfavorable weather. Registration was 5,005, as initial attendance at the first Farmers' Week in 1913 of 140, and an average for the 14 years of 3,904. The 1922 Farmers' Week still holds the attendance record with 61,241, closely followed by that of 1921 with 61,017.

DEADLY CARBON MONOXIDE GAS FROM MOTOR ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO DISCERN

By Dr. VERNON A. CHAPMAN
Member Gorgas Memorial Institute,
CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (United Press).—"Your nose knows," is an apt phrase but in every day life, especially where life and health are concerned, it's not always safe to take the words seriously. Your nose knows many times to tell you when your garage is but do not depend upon your nose being filled with deadly carbon monoxide gas. You cannot smell this gas; your nose does not know.

This deadly gas is manufactured while you are warming up the motor on a cold winter morning before starting out for the day, or while you are lying under the car, doing an odd repair job while the motor is running. It is also being manufactured by gasoline motors so frequently used on the farms. The gas is one of the products of combustion and the poorer the motor is running, the greater will be the supply of carbon monoxide being produced.

Carbon monoxide is colorless, odorless and tasteless gas. Therein lies its danger. This poisonous gas may be coming from the exhaust of your motor in great quantities and you will not know it. It permeates all parts of a closed room to the same extent, if given sufficient time.

The poison action of carbon monoxide is directly due to changes in the blood which reduces its oxygen carrying capacity. At the identical time you are being poisoned with this gas from your motor, the lung action increases, automatically and without your knowledge, you breathe in more of the contaminated air in an effort to get more oxygen. The increase speeds up the rate of saturation of the blood by the gas. This in turn intensifies the damage of the oxygen shortage. You breathe still more rapidly, until the blood has become so changed by the poison that it cannot contain or give the necessary oxygen to sustain life. Just how much the victim of this poisoning suffers before death is not known.

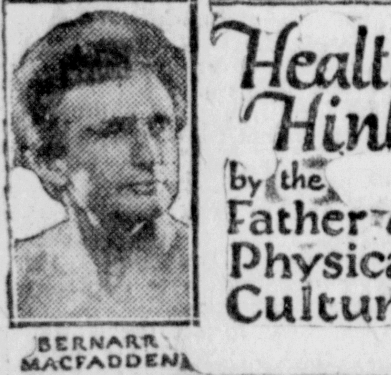

To revive an unconscious person who is the victim of carbon monoxide take him into the open air and apply artificial respiration. Do not leave the patient just because he has begun to breathe. He is apt to stop breathing and need artificial respiration manipulations. If the physician is able to administer oxygen, that will help. Probably the most efficient mixture in treating those affected is a five per cent carbon dioxide and oxygen mixture. Recently Prof. Henderson of Yale University and his co-worker, Dr. Haggard, proved its efficiency. The haled, stimulates the breathing.

The best treatment in the world against carbon monoxide poisoning is to prevent it. So do not run your motor in a closed garage.

New Radio Tube Makes Battery 'A' Unnecessary

Cumbersome "A" battery is made unnecessary by a new radio vacuum tube developed by A. N. Lucian, assistant professor of physics in University of Pennsylvania. It uses 110-volt alternating current and cannot burn out, since it has no filament, meaning a big saving to radio fans.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

The fundamental idea of clothing should be that of protection. The body must be kept from extremes of both heat and cold. The normal temperature of the body is about 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit, and it is of great importance to the vital functions that this temperature should be maintained at all times. The kind, amount, and form of clothing are, therefore, matters for deliberate consideration.

To protect the body from the extremes of heat and cold, non-conducting materials are the most serviceable. These are woolsens, furs, silks, cottons, and linens in the order named. The woolsens retain and prevent the radiation of heat better than other materials, and at the other extreme, linen, serves best for the purpose of, excluding heat. The darker-colored materials absorb the most heat from the sun and white clothing reflects it best. For this reason, dark clothing should be used in winter and light-colored in summer. Light-weight clothing that does not exclude the air is at all times preferable. Underclothing should be of such texture as to allow the free circulation of air between the clothing and the skin. Open-mesh, gauze, or knit underwear, made of cotton, will do this, and is a better conservator of heat than light-fitting, woven woolsens. Clothing that does not permit the free circulation of air is absolutely deleterious to health, preventing, as it does, the evaporation of the various poisons and waste materials exuded by the pores of the skin. For this reason, rubber goods, such as hats, shoes, and coats, are altogether bad. They are worn so closely that they exclude all air and thus clog the pores, forcing the body to get rid of its waste material by other channels, if it can.

Not only will fresh air and sunshine bring health, but they make for beauty as well. Sunlight and air will make the skin clear and rosy, and if they have free access to the hair and scalp, will prevent and cure baldness, dandruff, and falling hair.

The evil of keeping the air away from the body, great as it is, is perhaps surpassed by the folly of wearing clothing that in any way restricts or hampers the muscles and organs of the body.

Sunday. The trip was made under threatening skies.

Other legislators, the guests of the chief executive on the yachting party, were: Senator and Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, of Colorado; Representative and Mrs. Bertrand H. Snell, of New York; Representative and Mrs. Henry L. Bowles, of Massachusetts, and Major and Mrs. James F. Coupal.

The junior Ohio senator has been the guest of President and Mrs. Coolidge at the White House in Washington, D. C. for the past week.

BITTER CONFLICT OVER AVIATION IS DUE TO BREAK OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—United Press.—A battle eclipsed only by the Mitchell-War Department dispute over aeronautics, is expected in the House when friends of the former air officer and administration leaders come to grips this session over aviation legislation.

Both groups are prepared for a long struggle, administration followers stating of the President's Special Air Board and the Mitchell faction pushing the proposal of Maj. Gen. Mason Patrick, Army air chief for a separate air corps in the Army.

Unofficial polls of the House Military committee show that the Patrick plan is likely to receive approval despite objections expressed to it by Secretary of War Davis. Davis has urged the committee to follow the findings of the Morrow board and avoid legislation providing for radical departure in the defense system. The heels of the Army General Staff also have come down on the Patrick plan but from all indications have not caused the committee to change its apparent favor for the proposal.

The Morrow board suggested creation of another Assistant Secretary of War to handle aviation, leaving the Air Service in its present status. Patrick would have the Air Service given a status similar to the Marine Corps, affording it more independence with the air chief responsible to an Assistant Secretary of Aviation. His plan also calls for increasing the personnel of the air branch.

DEMONSTRATION FARMERS TO MEET

Meeting of all poultry demonstration farm owners in Greene County will be held at the Farm Bureau office, next Thursday, February 18, at 1 p. m.

R. E. Cray, poultry extension specialist, Ohio State University, will be present to summarize the past year's records and point out ways and means of making poultry flocks more profitable. Demonstration farm owners and calendar co-operators are expected to attend the meeting and all others interested in poultry and who would like information on raising poultry for profit are invited.

CALIFORNIA PLANS NEW ROSE CARNIVAL

SAN JOSE, Cal., Feb. 15.—"La Fiesta de las Rosas" is the name officially selected for the festival this year which will set up Santa Clara County as a rival for Portland, Ore., and Pasadena in rose growing honors.

Dates for the local event, which will be joined by other communities of the county, have been fixed as May 20, 21 and 22.

The Spanish name for the festival was chosen because of the historical background of this section. San Jose was an important Spanish settlement of early California long before it became the first capital city of the state, and the very name of the county is Spanish.

Tentative festival plans indicate that designs and costumes of those attending will stress this Spanish influence.

OWEN YOUNG WILL HELP CONFERENCE

GENEVA, Feb. 15.—Owen D. Young, associate of vice president Dawes in creation of the "Dawes plan" has accepted an invitation to participate in the preparatory commission of the League of Nations economic conference. His acceptance is interpreted here as indicating that the United States will bring before the conference a command for an investigation to break up world monopoly in certain raw materials.

DRAW COLOR LINE ON OLD FAMILIES

Richmond, Va., Feb. 1.—Patriotic societies of Virginia are protesting against the "racial integrity" bill introduced in the state legislature, which it is said would classify as "colored" some of the oldest and most famous families of the state.

The bill, if enacted, would classify as "colored" all persons with known or demonstrable Indian or negro blood; forbids their marriage with white persons and voids such marriages. The only exceptions would be descendants of Indians and whites married prior to 1619, thus excluding descendants of Pocahontas and John Rolfe from the bill. Some two thousand Virginians, including several judges and members of the legislature would fall under the classification of "colored" it is estimated.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.—Adv.

CLIFTON GIRL RESERVES

"MOTHER AND DAUGHTER"

One of the most interesting social affairs held in Clifton was sponsored by the Girl Reserves of that community, in the nature of a "mother and daughter" banquet, at the home of Mrs. Walter B. Corry, Saturday evening.

Twenty girls compose the Clifton Reserve unit and with their mothers, and a few friends, fifty people attended the banquet. Mrs. Corry, hostess of the evening, with Mrs. Wallace Rife, are advisors of the Clifton organization.

An elaborate banquet in three courses was served at six o'clock. Majority of guests were seated at one long table with other small tables placed throughout the room. Tables were decorated with red hearts and the blue triangle, emblem of the Girl Reserves. A pretty glow was cast over the scene by red candles in crystal holders.

Miss Nina Stevenson was toast leader of the evening and responses were given by the Misses W. E. Reynolds, secretaries of the Springfield Y. W. C. A., who were among the guests of the evening; Miss Marjorie Young and Miss Freda Estle, Clifton. Miss Estle is president of the Clifton Girl Reserves and presided during the evening.

Remainder of the evening was spent with a series of games, Miss Dorothy Shaw, acting as game leader.

Members of the adult committee of the Clifton Reserves planned and arranged the affair and are responsible for its success. They are: Mrs. Charles Stevenson, Mrs. Warren Printz, Mrs. Otis Tannehill, Miss Clara Kyle and Miss Cornelia Bradtke.

MISS FUDGE HONORED

AT EVENING GATHERING

Miss Ruth Fudge, bride-elect of Mr. Donald Finlay was feted by Miss Laura John who entertained a company of young women with a miscellaneous "show" at her home on W. Market St., Friday evening.

Ten friends of Miss Fudge were received. Informal social evening included a "mock wedding" and clever contests. THE RACE STILL BREEDS MEN HARDY OF SPIRIT

THOSE of us who felt we were experiencing "hardship" when driving a score of miles in an enclosed automobile during the blizzard of a few nights ago have perhaps but little conception of the endurance and hardy spirit required to combat the worse storms of the open plain and the raging sea. Still we are stirred by the authentic stories of how men have met these dangers and hardships and have voluntarily risked their lives in the bare chance that they might save the lives of others. We can join in the Cincinnati Times-Star's editorial tribute to these latter whose recent achievements compare with those of the vikings of old:

"Wild tales are coming in from the sea where winds and waves are wrestling as sailors say they never had seen them do before. Mattered ships are coming in from the sea, some of them as much as two days late; the best that the huge Leviathan could do the day the storm was at its worst was a log of seventy-eight miles. Two ships, at least, will not come in at all. The British freighter Laristan broke up, with a loss of twenty-five men, the German liner Bremen rescuing six. The British freighter Antiope was left a wallowing hulk in the track of navigation but its twenty-five men were safely transferred to the American liner President Roosevelt. The rescue effected amid the clamor of the elements, after a succession of vain attempts in which the American vessel lost half its lifeboats, is an epic of the sea. In achieving it the Roosevelt also lost two of its own sailors. Let their names be remembered. Ernest Heitman, boatswain's mate, New York, and Uno Wirtana, master-at-arms, Finland, were what a Times-Star writer called them yesterday, 'two men.'

"Even here, far inland, we know the fell clutch of winter. But on the open Atlantic the winds and waves have held such a rendezvous as happens not twice in a lifetime. Hardy of spirit was he, said Horace, who first launched a keel upon the deep. Hardy, indeed, are they to whose resolute spirit all seasons are alike when they go down to the sea in ships."

PYRAMIDS.

PYRAMIDS rather inspire the soul with their colossal appearance. They remind us of the smallness of our own physical self and we get to retrospecting of the old days and wondering as to the civilization of another day. But pyramids are not practical; they accomplish little in the way of improving the world, of making this a better place to live in.

The Miami (Fla.) Tribune tells of a proposed American pyramid as follows:

"America, too, is to have a pyramid. But not as a tomb for any man. Rather a tomb for American civilization. The builder, William Hope Harvey, of Benton county, Arkansas, is certain that the present civilization is doomed, and is determined that civilized man at some distant future time shall have less difficulty in discovering and understanding it than we have had in regard to the ancient Romans, Greeks, Egyptians, Babylonians and Chaldeans.

"So Mr. Harvey is going to build a pyramid 130 feet to the top of the shaft of the most durable metal obtainable, inscribed: 'Go below and find a record of, and the cause of, the death of a former civilization.' The future discoverers then will drill down through the concrete and steel and come to a crypt in which have been stored books printed on enduring paper and sealed in glass jars, giving a detailed account of our scientific progress, knowledge and mechanical devices, with other volumes to help in deciphering the language. It will be emphasized in those records that this age, though rich in scientific knowledge, was poor in statesmanship and not really civilized.

"Now, isn't that a curious thing for a man to do?"

THE "HUMANITARIANS."

PROFESSIONAL vegetarians, preferring plant food to meat, would dissuade or prevent others from eating meat, and, having convinced themselves that they are so far ahead of their day that vegetarian legislation is impossible in this unenlightened age, they have consecrated their lives to the "education" of the meat-eating rabble.

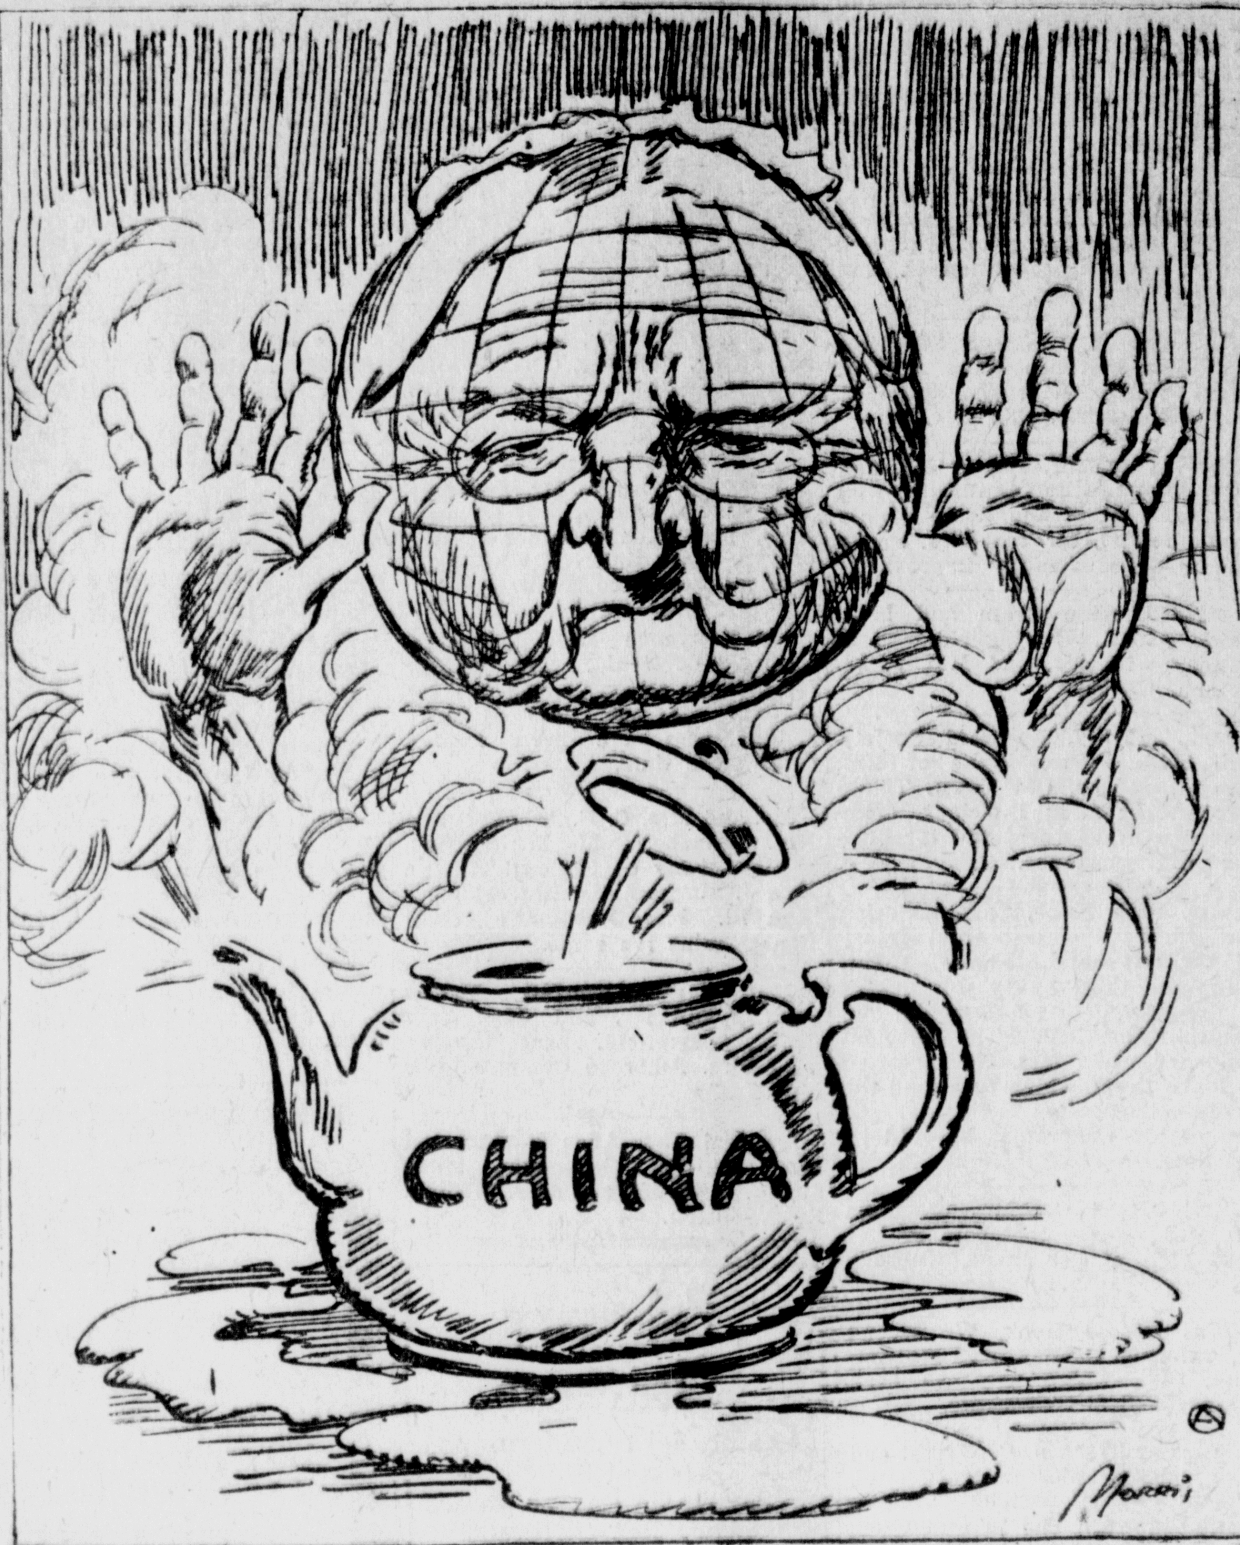

Having worn out their antiquated argument that meat isn't good for human consumption, the plant-eaters are now appealing to the public to spare the lives of the millions of innocent beasts which annually are sacrificed to the gratification of human appetite.

Can't the meat eaters in recrimination charge the vegetarians with slaughtering hapless and harmless plants to satisfy their hunger? Have the vegetarians scientific proof that because plants do not betray outward evidence of pain and suffering that death is less painful to them than to dumb animals?

Of course potatoes, corn and beans do not cry out when severed from their mother stalks. Neither does an eel struggle in the agonies of death. Nor an oyster. Nor the lobster. The beet can not bellow but it can bleed, and does, copiously. Is the housewife who rends the pulsating heart from the stalk of celery or dismembers the head of cabbage less cruel than the wife who pounds a steak or broils a chicken?

It is the fear of death, not death itself, that is painful. Will the rapacious devourers of the flora prove that the beasts upon which humanity subsists possess this fear of death to a greater degree than do the vegetables in the backyard?

MOTHER WORLD: "OH DEAR! THAT CHINA POT IS BOILING OVER AGAIN!"

New Dishes for This Week:

Brown Beef Stew: Buy three pounds of shin beef. Have the bone cracked. Remove as much of the meat as possible from the bone, then brown both meat and bone in three tablespoons of beef drippings. Add three large, peeled onions sliced, and continue to fry till the onions are a light brown. Now add two quarts of cold water and bring to a boil. Let continue to simmer for three hours, or till the meat is very tender. Remove bones and skim off any fat. Add enough potatoes to serve your family (these should have been previously boiled in salted water for ten minutes, then drained). Continue to boil the stew till the potatoes are tender—perhaps 15 minutes. Season with salt and pepper to suit individual taste and, just before serving, thicken the stew liquor with flour mixed to a paste with cold water (allowing about one heaping teaspoon of the flour for each cupful of the stew liquor). Serve on a platter with the thickened gravy poured over the meat and potatoes. Toward the end of the cooking of the stew, add additional boiling water if the original amount has evaporated so greatly that there would be almost no gravy.

Ham With Kidney Beans: Soak one and one-half cups of dried kidney beans overnight and in the morning add one-fourth teaspoon of baking soda, boiling water to cover, and let stew till nearly tender. Now turn the beans, with what remains of the water in which they were cooked, into a baking dish; add one and one-half cups of diced uncooked celery, one large onion peeled and minced, one teaspoon of salt, one cup of minced left-over ham, one teaspoon of sugar, a pinch of pepper, and one cup of sour milk. If the liquor from the beans does not nearly cover these ingredients, add boiling water almost to the top of ingredients. Cover the dish and slip it into a medium hot oven to bake for two hours, then remove cover and bake 20 minutes longer. Serve very hot. (Today's menu calls for breakfast ham. Provide sufficient so that you will have one cupful of cooked ham left over for this dish the following day).

Dooley then told the purpose of the meeting; Instrumental, Miss Evelyn Adams; Vocal solo, Catherine Parker; Reading, Roosevelt Madison; Vocal solo, Alberto Mayo; Instrumental solo, Thomas Faulkner; Vocal solo, Miss Entie Roper; Vocal solo, Miss Louise Linglatry; Rev. Mrs. Orange Ellison of the Jamestown Pike, has been on the sick list for a few days. He is some what improved.

Rev. C. M. Long, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Orange, N. J., will be the guest of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson of Wilberforce this week. Rev. Long will preach at the Zion Baptist Church Wednesday night. He is now pastoring one of the largest Baptist Churches in the east.

Little Miss Evelyn Thompson entertained twenty-five of her young friends at her home in Wilberforce with a Valentine party Friday. The house was decorated in hearts in keeping with the season. St. Valentine was also suggested in the menu, which consisted of heart-shaped cakes, candies and ices.

Games, music and a contest furnished the amusement for the evening. Miss Mary Ruth Williams was winner of the prize, a beautiful box of stationery, having made the most words out of the word "Valentine."

The merry crowd was chaperoned by Miss Laura White.

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Greene County History

THE TOLL ROADS

Nearly half a century ago Greene County was a network of the now obsolete toll roads.

It cost the early settlers as much to travel those pay-as-you-go roads in the nineteenth century as it does to travel on steam or electric trains of today.

It is uncertain when the first toll road appeared in the United States but one was recorded in Pennsylvania in 1792 and other colonies are thought to have had them even before that date.

Ohio is credited with its first toll road in 1809 in Trumbull County.

It is not certain when the first one appeared in Greene County but they were in operation early in 1830.

During that decade the general assembly authorized county commissioners to assist in the building of turnpikes by purchasing stock in private companies. It was not until 1850 that the general assembly abolished the law providing for public money to be expended through these private concerns.

The legislature, in repealing the act permitting county commissioners to appropriate funds for toll roads, made provisions whereby commissioners could purchase roads already owned by private companies.

A law was passed in 1910 making it mandatory for all counties to take over all toll roads within their limits.

Counties were further authorized to issue bonds for this purpose if they could not otherwise obtain the money, and it is a matter of record a number of counties in Ohio are paying interest on bonds issued for the sole purpose of buying toll roads, and which in some counties do not mature until 1930.

Today's Talks

TALKERS

Every day listeners grow more fascinating to me. I like them because I can ask them question after question—and learn something.

Continual talkers not only throw off a great deal of chaff, but they take up your time with the saying of much that means nothing to you.

I like to take conversation as I do my meal—by being handed a morsel and then selecting what I think my mood and appetite demand. Our moods have much to do with what we eat.

And so to sit of an evening and hear nothing spoken but what you have stimulated or sought is a rare treat indeed. It gives you something on which to build new thoughts and new ideas.

Talkers are not big doers—ever. America has a President who is beloved and trusted—because he doesn't talk all the time. He does enough right along to warrant his fellow citizens in believing that he will grow into the doing of better and better things as the occasion demands.

Admiral Dewey was a great sea fighter and a great man. When they told him at Manila bay that it was filled with mines, he said: "Give my love to the mines (or words that meant, translated, his indifference) and go ahead!" But when he got back home—a national hero—and people who were not his real friends tried to get him into political office, he said things that did not fit his life of doing and not talking. And so he almost lost over night the glory of a lifetime which he had honorably earned.

Sometimes I think that it would be a wise thing to have somebody else always do our talking for us. That would give us more time in which to get many of the big things we hope to do—done.

But be charitable to all talkers. They are not so bad as sometimes they sound. And they often mean only a part of what they say.

ON ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Editor of Republican and Gazette:

I thought I would write you a few lines in regard to Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, 1809, born near Hodgenville, county seat of what is now known as LaRue County, Ky. At nineteen years of age he raised a company for the Black Hawk War and was elected captain of the company and on the fifteenth of April 1861, he issued his first proclamation as president and was assassinated April 14, 1865, in Ford's Theater, Washington, D. C., by John Wilkes Booth.

I saw sometime ago you published a man's name as the last survivor to Lincoln's death. He was mistaken for I was one of the escorts in Chicago and from there to Springfield, Ill.

Mr. Editor, you published a few days past, an article in regard to the first court held in Greene County being in Xenia. That may be true for Judicial Court. I just now found your article and you have Owen Davis' name for whipping a man for stealing a hog. That Owen Davis was my great uncle. We have papers to show the facts.

THE Bread and Butter Wife
By Violet Dare

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

SALLY and TOM PORTER have separated, quarrelling because Sally has insisted on returning to her work as a public stenographer after their marriage. The fact that she did so in order to pay their bills when he lost his job makes no difference to Tom.

SALLY finds other men ready to help her forget Tom, but she cannot put him out of her heart. At last she realizes that her life will always be incomplete without him, and when a letter comes from his sister,

EMILY, saying that Tom is devoting himself to another girl, Sally decides to make one more effort to straighten out the tangle between them.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XLIV—THE FIGHT BEGINS

SALLY started out bravely the next morning, determined that she would get some typing to do at home, then find a home in which to do it—and then see her husband and try to straighten out the difficulties that separated them.

She was an attractive little figure in her dark blue and small, trim hat. She stopped in a little shop where a sale was advertised by big window signs, and bought a white collar and cuff set, feeling that it added enough to her appearance to justify the dollar she spent on it.

"I can't do many things like that," she told herself, "but it means a lot to feel that you look nice when you're looking for work."

She went to the office of a public stenographer whom she had known in the days when she was working at the hotel.

"I want some work to do at home—typing," she told Mrs. Eaton, the woman who had the office. "Won't you let me have anything extra that comes to you that you can't handle? I'll get it out in a hurry, work nights any time, on a rush job."

"Well, I don't know—I rarely have anything that my two girls and I can't manage," Mrs. Eaton answered rather discouragingly. "You look pretty well. Been away? You got married, didn't you?"

SALLY sensed the other woman's jealousy in her tone. She smiled, the cheerful little smile that was one of her greatest charms.

"Yes, I've been away, working hard, and yes, I got married, but I've got to support myself," she replied.

"Oh! One more marriage that didn't take," Mrs. Eaton was more cordial. Sally resented the woman's "misery-loves-company" attitude. But she gave no hint of her own feelings; she had worked too long in a world that is not overkind to girls who support themselves to think that she could afford the luxury of resentment.

"Well, it didn't exactly take," she answered. "And I'd be most awfully grateful to you if you can help me."

"I'll do what I can," Mrs. Eaton told her, more encouragingly than she had spoken before. "We get manuscripts of books and things like that once in a while, and if you really don't pay me to have them done here, what's your address?"

SALLY gave her the name of the cheap little hotel where she was staying, and went away.

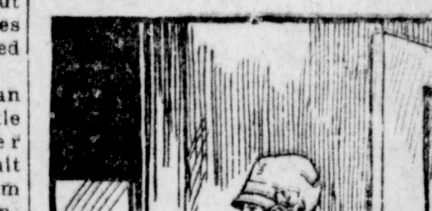

To another office, then to another—up through huge skyscrapers in elevators full of busy looking people, people who all had jobs, she told herself, wisely—into offices where other girls were working. She left her name at several of them, and also at two employment agencies in the hope that somebody might want a secretary who would work at home.

She went back to her hotel room, to dine on crackers and milk that she had smuggled in in her handbag, to wash out her underwear and handkerchiefs, and then sit by the window in a creaky old rocking chair and wonder where Tom was.

Was he with that other girl that girl whose sister had a big house in a suburb, where she and Tom could sit on a comfortable front porch and listen to the crickets and smell the flowers blooming in a garden? What would he be saying to that other girl, if they were sitting there? Telling her that he loved her, perhaps? Telling her about Sally? His wife—"Only somehow we couldn't make a go of it. She wanted to spend so much money—wanted a lot of things I couldn't pay for, so after we were married she went on working, and of course we couldn't have a real home."

"He hasn't any right to tell her that!" Sally exclaimed fiercely, just as if she really knew that Tom really was telling that other girl about her. "I did give up my job when we were married, and it was a good job, too! I was willing to stay home, only when he was out of work we had to have money, and there wasn't anything else for me to do."

"Any work today?"

but go back and pound a typewriter again!"

For the thousandth time she wondered how they would have made out if she hadn't gone back to work. Tom would have just had to support them, somehow. They'd have got along, of course—people did. They'd have run up terrible bills, but those would have been paid by now—and she and Tom would have had each other.

In that moment Sally, lonely and tired and wretched, was ready to give in under the weight of trouble that bore down on her slender shoulders. After all, what could she do if Tom had really turned from her to that other girl who had gone up to his sister's big home? She had always come back to her life in Tom's love for her—maybe she'd been wrong!

"Well, I'm going to find out whether I'm wrong or not!" she announced at last, to the grimy stained walls of this little hotel bedroom. "I'll make this one up effort and then if I lose out—"

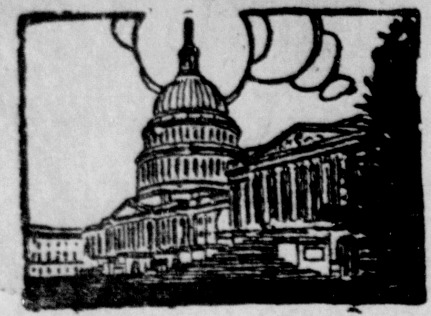

She didn't finish that sentence.

She went to the office again the next day, and the next. "Any work today?" she would ask, as cheerfully as if it didn't really matter.

She got a few things to do, a manuscript to copy, a batch of form letters that Mrs. Eaton didn't care about doing.

SALLY worked conscientiously as if she hadn't another interest in the world but those letters. But whenever she stopped for a moment to rest her arms and back, the thought of Tom bobbed up in her mind. Did he still love her? When would she see him again?

Tomorrow—Home Again.

DARK HORSE IS NEW CHAMPION

Those Hammer Club men don't know how to hunt in this morning's mail comes a letter from a liar that is a liar. He is the champion. His letter will prove to you that he deserves the blue ribbon.

Dear Mack:
I have been reading in recent issues of Xenia's only newspaper many tales of the grand old hunting days, which have reminded me of Uncle Silas Scraggins, aged 126, of Kentucky, who was considered a mighty nimrod in his day.

Uncle Sil had a gun with an 80 inch barrel which he loaded with shot and powder. He had a trick of slinging his gun while shooting it to make the shot scatter, on rare occasions killing as many as 16 rabbits at one shot. When he wanted to make a long shot, he would push against the butt of the gun with a quick lurch of his right shoulder. He claimed he increased the killing distance of his firearm several miles by this method. He mixed salt with his shot so that the rabbits would not spoil before he got to them.

Si would often shoot partridges until the barrel of his gun became red hot. Then he would tie the gun to a partridge he had trained for the occasion and turn it loose with the result that when it flew threw the air, other birds would light on the barrel and burn to death.

Speaking of fishing, Si used to go to a river, dive down into the water and make a noise like an angle worm. When the fish came up to him, he would strangle them and put them in a bucket of water which he carried under the surface with him. In a few minutes they would drown. One day he came out of the water with two candy buckets full of fish. Two boatmen, each about ten feet long, jumped out after him and followed him home.

"I've caught all their children," he explained, "and they know I'll get them sooner or later, so they decided to follow me home."

Yours truly,
I. W. L. TELLUM

SENTENCE TO WORKS MAY BE SUSPENDED ON PROMISE TO PAY

Imprudence of William Profit, colored, Delaware, O., former resident of Cedarville, wanted for nearly a year on a non-support charge, in seeking information of Probate Judge S. C. Wright regarding his recently divorced wife, may cost him a fine of $10 and costs and a term of six months in the Dayton Workhouse.

Profit pleaded guilty to non-support before Judge Wright in Probate Court Saturday and was given the above fine and sentence, inclined toward leniency. Judge Wright announced he will parole Profit providing he is able to furnish $800 bond and contribute $8 per week toward the support of his former wife and children. He is employed in a restaurant in Delaware and was given a few days of grace in which to raise the money. Profit has been the object of a long search on the non-support charge. He inadvertently played into the hands of local authorities who were unaware of his whereabouts when he wrote Judge Wright concerning his wife wanting to know if she had divorced him. She has since re-married.

The judge immediately wrote to Delaware authorities who arrested Profit. He was returned to Greene County on charges contained in a new warrant sworn out by his former spouse.

The Theatre

What's in a name? You've never known the real meaning of this old gag until you have seen Pola Negri's REAL name instead of her REEL one.

Believing that there is a lot of meaning in a nice sounding name many movie stars have changed their own until when pronounced they give forth sounds that do not jar the ear and can easily be remembered by the dear public.

Here are a few of your favorites with their real names: Rudolph Valentino, Giuseppe Guglielmi; Pola Negri, Appollonia Chalupcz; Domaski; Claire Windsor, Oia Kronk; Natacha Rambova, Wini-fred Hndnut; Mary Astor, Lucille Langhanke; Viola Dana, Viola Flugrath; Shirley Mason, Shirley Flugrath; Mary Pickford, Gladys Smith; Douglas Fairbanks, Douglas Ulman; Ramon Navarro, Ramon Samanlegos; Colleen Moore, Kathleen Morrison; Leatrice Joy, Leatrice Seidler; Lila Lee, Lillian Atfel.

Mary Pickford has just completed her new picture, "Sparrows," the story of a baby farm in the swamp country. Mary plays the role of Mama Mollie, a little girl who leads an adventurous band of orphans.

Tax-free movies are said to be a result to develop from the Senate-House conference on the tax bill at Washington Monday when differences in House and Senate bills will be adjusted. The bill was expected to pass the Senate Friday.

DAYTON STRUCK BY MILLION DOLLAR STORE FIRE

AMERICAN SAVINGS BUILDING AND HOME STORE ARE GUTTED

Entire Business Section
Threatened By Sunday
Night Blaze

(By United Press)
DAYTON, Feb. 15.—Damage estimated at a million dollars resulted from a fire that destroyed the Home Store building and caused serious damage to the American Savings Building and threatened to destroy Dayton's main business section late Sunday night.

Fire was discovered at 11:50 o'clock Sunday night in the Home Store and spread quickly to the American Savings Building, as well as all buildings on the east side of Main St., from Third to N. Market St.

Every available piece of fire fighting apparatus and every fireman in the city were called out to check the conflagration, which for a time threatened to get out of control.

Complete stock of the Home Store was destroyed in the blaze, damage to this store being estimated at $400,000, partly covered by insurance. Adler and Childs Store, saved from the flames by a fire wall, was a heavy loser through smoke and water. Its loss is estimated at $50,000. Damage to the American Savings building is computed to have reached $100,000. Other stores damaged in the fire are: Reed Shoe Store, 16 S. Main St., $15,000; United Woolen Mills, 3 S. Main, $5,000; Zonar's Confectionery, 10 S. Main, $5,000; United Cigar Store, $1,000; Sarnoff-Irving Hat Shop, 18 S. Main, $10,000; Todd Pharmacy, 4 E. Third St., $5,000; and Coney Island Restaurant, $500.

HOUSEWIVES WILL LEARN MEAT CUTS

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—Housewives, who have difficulty in telling one cut of meat from another will have ten chances to learn in Columbus this week.

A series of ten demonstrations in meat identification and quality is scheduled for Columbus this week by the animal husbandry specialists of the Ohio State University.

Federal surveys show that of 17 different steaks, the average housewife can identify only three; of eight kinds of roasts she can identify two, or less.

Determining quality, as well as the cut of meat, will come in for demonstration and discussion at the meetings. The meat and cutters will be provided by local packers and retailers.

BERGDOLL ARREST MAY BE "FRAME-UP"

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Arrest in Baden, of the American draft dodger, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, on charges of immoral behavior, was deemed today in some quarters, an attempt to get Germany to deport him.

While the extradition treaty between America and Germany is not yet in effect it is pointed out that Germany, if it desired, could take him to its borders and order him not to return. It was suspected the arrest might be linked with a magazine or newspaper "enterprise" maneuver or perhaps be engineered by American ex-service men who have long desired to "get" the dodger.

Suspicion was given some support when Bergdoll himself charged that he was the victim of a "frame-up." He denied all knowledge of the misconduct charged against him.

JURY TAMPERING PROBE IS RENEWED

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15.—As the second week's investigation of alleged jury tampering in the trial and conviction of Josiah Kirby, of the Cleveland Discount Company, got under way today, the following developments had been recorded:

Four indictments had been voted, one of which was secret. Hearing of testimony of more than 70 witnesses, many of them enemies summoned for Kirby's defense, was held.

Government officials, satisfied with the progress made during the week, prophesied more startling disclosures this week.

Among those indicted were two X-ray men and a former politician.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR ARREST OF EARL OF CRAVEN ON CHARGE

Nobleman Will Be Asked About Admission Of Guilt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A warrant for the arrest of the Earl of Craven was issued by Secretary of Labor Davis this morning.

Robt. Carl White, Assistant Secretary of Labor announced the action which was taken in response to the request of Commissioner of Immigration Curran, at Ellis Island, who desires to question the Earl about his relations with the Countess of Cathcart, ordered deported for "moral turpitude."

The warrant was signed by Assistant Secretary of Labor Hubbard and telegraphed to Curran. It will be turned over to a federal officer for service on the Earl.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Departure of the Earl of Craven from the United States may settle prematurely the question as to whether the government has "raised a double moral standard" in exclusion of aliens.

After Commissioner of Immigration Curran had asked a warrant for arrest of Lord Craven, it was reported the Earl had left for Canada rather than face investigation on the same charges of "moral turpitude" which caused the exclusion of Vera, Countess of Cathcart.

It was openly conceded by Commissioner Curran that Lord Craven could have avoided deportation merely by denying an immoral relationship with the Countess. But the code of gentlemen the world has apparently been followed.

Countess Cathcart was in trouble for having told the truth of the love affair which had its flowering in a Rhodesian ranch and honor demanded that Lord Craven leave the country voluntarily or else appear for investigation.

Thus young Lord Craven who gave a leg to the allied cause during the war, lived up to the motto of the Craven arms—"Virtues in action constituit" (Courage rests in action.)

FOUR ESCAPE DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 15.—Turning over twice in mid-air in their car's crash, four persons miraculously escaped death early today when they plunged over a 100 foot embankment. The car landed on the B. & O. Railroad tracks.

The accident was the second of this nature during the past week. James Fallon, 44, owner, who drove the car over the embankment, was arrested on a charge of careless driving. Three other occupants of the car, a man and two women, had disappeared when police arrived.

When police, notified of the accident, arrived, they found Fallon sitting on the running board of the wrecked car.

MARION MAN WINS FIDDLERS' CONTEST

The old time fiddlers' contest conducted by Manager W. H. Raynor of the Hippodrome was for the Ohio State championship. Old time fiddlers from practically every city and town in Ohio appeared to compete for the prizes.

Jonas Heipner, 85, of Akron, took second honors.

THREE KILLINGS IN CHICAGO OVER WEEK END; CH URCH IS BOMBED

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—While legal machinery is being rapidly assembled to deport undesirable aliens, three killings were perpetrated in Chicago over the week end and a bomb explosion shattered the windows of the Santa Marie Church.

Mrs. Antonette Gildard, a divorcee, was awakened in the early hours of the morning by a knock on her backdoor. She opened the door and was shot and killed.

Thomas Christensen, a city detective, shot and killed William of the outskirts of the city. Wawrynkiez, an inn keeper, John Glenn, part owner of a sort drink parlor, was shot and killed by Virgil Litzinger, a minor political leader.

The worshippers in the Santa Marie Church were disturbed yesterday when costly stained glass windows were shattered by a bomb exploded in a nearby Chinese laundry.

While crime was rampant during the week end, officials were busily engaged in organization to deport the alien gunmen. Six immigration inspectors were promised to the Chicago officials in a campaign to clear the city of Sicilian gangsters.

FATE OF MEXICANS BLAMED FOR DEATHS IN HANDS OF JUDGE

Crowds Visit Tia Juana
In Spite Of Trials

(By United Press)
SAN DIEGO, Cal. Feb. 15.—The fate of seven Mexicans accused of first degree murder in connection with the "shame suicides" of the four members of the Thomas Petet family, rested today with Federal Judge Sam Urias.

The Mexican jurist may rule the men guilty or order a trial by jury. If the verdict is guilty it is expected some of the men will be ordered summarily executed by a firing squad.

If the trial is to be before a jury, it will very likely be held at Mexicali, in "justice" to the defendants who claim there is prejudice against them in Tia Juana.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 15.—Although charges which may call out the firing squad before the week end, hang over the Chief of Police of Tia Juana and six other Mexicans, Tia Juana was thronged with tourists Sunday from the American side who engaged in revels lasting until well into this morning.

Many were drawn to the border resort when they heard of threats to close it, anxious to have "one more fling" before the west's chief oasis might be wiped out. While the gaiety was in full swing, information charging the chief of police and six others with responsibility for the "shame suicide" of T. M. Petet, his wife and two daughters was on file.

INDIANA KLAN WILL SECEDE IS CLAIMED

KOKOMO, Ind., Feb. 15.—Secession of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan from the national organization loomed as a possibility today, following a stormy convocation attended by 3,000 Klansmen.

A call was sent out after the meeting for another gathering of Klansmen here next Sunday and all Klansmen in the state were asked to send representatives.

In the meantime a new constitution and organization rules will be drafted and the name of the Klan and allegiance to the national body may be cast aside entirely.

The Indiana Klan organization, which enrolled a tremendous membership under the leadership of D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon, now serving a life sentence for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer, has been at odds with the national officers of the hooded order for many months. It was learned.

INVESTIGATION OF ALUMINUM COMPANY AFFAIRS STARTED

Federal Trade Commission Begins Hearing
In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 15.—The investigation in the affairs of the Aluminum Company of America, controlled by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, began in Pittsburgh today when Major W. W. Shippard opened a hearing for the federal trade commission.

The hearing in Pittsburgh is expected to be concluded in about four days, and the investigation will be "continued."

The probe being conducted here is in line with the complaint issued by the commission last July which charged the Aluminum Company, with attempting monopoly of the raw aluminum and its products and the use of unfair methods of competition. The charges were denied by the company in its answer filed last September.

The recent senate investigation of the aluminum company instigated by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, the most prominent figure in the probe of Teapot Dome case, adds much interest to the hearings.

AERIAL EXPRESS LAUNCHED BY FORD

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 15.—An aerial variation of the old "pony express" was inaugurated here today when the first contract air-mail plane left the Ford Airport on time at 10:40 a.m. for Cleveland.

A fleet of army pursuit planes from Selfridge Field near here escorted the first plane over the southern horizon.

The plane was the "Maiden Dearborn No. 1," first all-metal airplane manufactured by the Ford Motor Company, and was piloted by Lawrence Fritz, a regular Ford Air Transport Service pilot.

GOVERNOR ATTENDS TRUSTEE SESSIONS OF NORMAL COLLEGE

Board Will Probe Negligence Charges At Meeting

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—Governor Vic Donahey left here today for Kent, where he will attend a session of the board of trustees of Kent Normal College, called by him to hear evidence concerning charges that the trustees have been guilty of "neglect of duty."

The governor was accompanied by State Director of Education Vernon M. Riegel and officials connected with Riegel's department.

KENT, O., Feb. 15.—Charges that the trustees of Kent State Normal College have been guilty of negligence in office, were to be aired here today when the trustees, at the call of Governor Vic Donahey, convene in extraordinary session.

Kent alumnus, including Joseph B. Hanan, president of the Akron board of education, circulated petitions containing the charges after the enforced resignation of President John E. McGilvrey and the appointment of T. Howard Winters as acting president.

Among the charges the Gov. will be called upon to consider are:

Have David Ladd Rockwell, W. A. Cluff, and W. L. Courseen, members of the board, been guilty of "gross neglect" as charged?

Is Hanan justified in his personal attack on Rockwell?

Was the dismissal of McGilvrey brought about through a political pact?

Is the board of trustees controlled by professional politicians?

Should McGilvrey's successor be chosen from the present faculty?

The governor will address a public meeting in the school auditorium tonight in an effort to weld together the split factions.

TRUAX MAINTAINS SILENCE IN PROBE OF CONCESSIONS

Agriculture Head To Appear Before Tracy In Investigation

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 15.—Maintaining strict silence, State Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, was to appear before State Auditor Joseph D. Tracy today as Tracy resumed his investigation of alleged irregularities in the sale of concessions at the last state fair.

The investigation which has revealed what Tracy characterizes as "efforts of concessionaires to exchange campaign contributions for concessions, centers around a $200 contribution by the Greater Sheepley shows, after receiving the riding devices concession at the fair.

Truax has been subpoenaed to tell what he knows of the contribution. The money, according to Tracy was laid on the desk of State Fair Manager G. R. Lewis, who turned it over to Gov. Donahey. The governor returned it to the donor.

State examiners today were scrutinizing other concession contracts and Truax will be asked to show all records in connection with the case, Tracy said. Complete records, covering all purchases and sales, may be introduced.

Tracy spent the week-end out of town "interviewing" certain persons who may have knowledge of other contributions, he said.

FARM INSTITUTE IS WELL ATTENDED

The annual Jefferson Twp. Farmers' Institute, held at the Bowersville centralized school February 8 and 9, was well attended and was voted one of the most successful in years.

Speeches featured both sessions of the institute and officers were elected for the ensuing year. Refreshments were served by the Parent-Teachers' Association.

Attendance at the 1925 Farmers' Week was the fifth best in the 14 years, despite unfavorable weather. Registration was 5,905, an initial attendance at the first annual Farmers' Week in 1913 of 140, and an average for the 14 years of 3,904. The 1925 Farmers' Week gill holds the attendance record with 6,124, closely followed by that of 1921 with 6,107.

EXPLOSION IN OHIO SHAFT CATCHES 600 BUT MOST ESCAPE

Ten of Twenty Four Injured Thought Serious

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS, Feb. 15.—One miner was killed and twenty-four injured, ten seriously, when an explosion wrecked the main entrance of the Cleveland and Western Company's new mine at Powhattan, Belmont County this morning, according to information received by the state bureau of mines here.

Six hundred workmen entered the mine for the day shift at 7 a. m., the bureau was advised. All of them, with the exception of those injured, escaped unhurt, reports to the bureau declared.

Ten of the injured have been sent to Bellaire hospitals, the bureau was advised. Jerome Watson, head of the division of mines, has left for the scene.

Before leaving Watson said telephone reports attributed the blast to a short circuit in the main shaft. Fire followed the explosion but was quickly extinguished he said.

BELLAIRE, O., Feb. 15.—A terrific explosion wrecked the main entrance of the Cleveland and Western Company's new mine at Powhattan, twenty miles south of here this morning.

Six hundred miners entered the diggings at 7 a. m. The explosion occurred fifty-five minutes later. One body horribly burned has been taken from the pit and twenty-four miners, all severely burned, were left in the shaft.

Houses surrounding the mine shaft were rocked by the blast. Nearby residents said as the explosion occurred, flames shot a hundred feet into the air.

The workmen employed in the mine have been on strike, only returned to work today. Only meager reports of the explosion have been received here.

A mine rescue car bearing life-saving equipment, physicians and nurses left Bellaire for the scene at 9 a. m.

The injured are being brought to Bellaire by train. All were too severely burned to give a coherent account of the blast.

Powhattan is in an isolated mining section, the only outlet being branch lines over which coal trains and locals ply.

Rugged hills, capped with coal tips, surround the little town.

SALM WILL ATTEMPT TO SEE HIS CHILD

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15.—Count Ludwig Salm Von Hoogstraeten's boisterous row over a "father's privileges" which reverberated in the social colony here, and which ended abruptly on Salm's first visit with his infant son, was renewed today with a legal aspect.

Aided by Attorney Willis Baruch, Count Salm hoped to defeat his father-in-law, Colonel H. H. Rogers and enjoy a private romp with 18-months' old Peter Constantin Salm.

Lack of privacy during the visit yesterday pricked the Count's honor and a moment after he had kissed his little brown-eyed, golden-haired son, Salm was embroiled in an argument with a detective sent by Rogers to guard the child.

DEADLY CARBON MONOXIDE GAS FROM MOTOR ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO DISCERN

By Dr. VERNON A. CHAPMAN
Member Gorges Memorial Institute.
CHICAGO, Feb. 15. (United Press.)—"Your nose knows" is an apt phrase but in every day life, especially where life and health are concerned, it's not always safe to take the words seriously. Your nose knows many times to tell you when your garage is but do not depend upon your nose being filled with deadly carbon monoxide gas. You cannot smell this gas; your nose does not know.

This deadly gas is manufactured while you are warming up the motor on a cold winter morning before starting out for the day, or while you are lying under the car, doing an odd repair job while the motor is running. It is also being manufactured by gasoline motors so frequently used on the farms. The gas is one of the products of combustion and the poorer the motor is running, the greater will be the supply of carbon monoxide being produced.

Carbon monoxide is colorless, odorless and tasteless gas. There-

New Radio Tube Makes Battery 'A' Unnecessary

Cumbersome "A" battery is made unnecessary by a new radio vacuum tube developed by A. N. Lucian, assistant professor of physics in University of Pennsylvania. It uses 110-volt alternating current and cannot burn out, since it has no filament, meaning a big saving to radio fans.

The fundamental idea of clothing should be that of protection. The body must be kept from extremes of both heat and cold. The normal temperature of the body is about 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit, and it is of great importance to the vital functions that this temperature should be maintained at all times. The kind, amount, and form of clothing are, therefore, matters for deliberate consideration.

To protect the body from the extremes of heat and cold, non-conducting materials are the most serviceable. These are woolens, furs, silks, cottons, and linens in the order named. The woolens retain and prevent the radiation of heat better than other materials, and at the other extreme, linen, serves best for the purpose of excluding heat. The darker-colored materials absorb the most heat from the sun and white clothing reflects it best. For this reason, dark clothing should be used in winter and light-colored in summer. Light-weight clothing that does not exclude the air is at all times preferable. Underclothing should be of such texture as to allow the free circulation of air between the clothing and the skin. Open-mesh, gauze, or knit underwear, made of cotton, will do this, and is a better conservator of heat than tight-fitting, woven woolens. Clothing that does not permit the free circulation of air is absolutely deleterious to health, preventing, as it does, the evaporation of the various poisons and waste materials exuded by the pores of the skin. For this reason, rubber goods, such as hats, shoes, and coats, are altogether bad. They are woven so closely that they exclude all air and thus clog the pores, forcing the body to get rid of its waste material by other channels, if it can.

Not only will fresh air and sunshine bring health, but they make for beauty as well. Sunlight and air will make the skin clear and rosy, and if they have free access to the hair and scalp, will prevent and cure baldness, dandruff, and falling hair.

The evil of keeping the air away from the body, great as it is, is perhaps surpassed by the folly of wearing clothing that in any way restricts or hampers the muscles and organs of the body.

lies its danger. This poisonous gas may be coming from the exhaust of your motor in great quantities and you will not know it. It permeates all parts of a closed room to the same extent, if given sufficient time.

The poison action of carbon monoxide is directly due to changes in the blood which reduces its oxygen carrying capacity. At the identical time you are being poisoned with this gas from your motor, the lung action increases, automatically and without your knowledge, you breathe in more of the contaminated air in an effort to get more oxygen. The increase speeds up the rate of saturation of the blood by the gas. This in turn intensifies the damage of the oxygen shortage. You breathe still more rapidly, until the blood has become so changed by the poison that it cannot contain or give the necessary oxygen to sustain life. Just how much the victim of this poisoning suffers before death is not known.

To revive an unconscious person who is the victim of carbon monoxide, take him into the open air and apply artificial respiration. Do not leave the patient just because he has begun to breathe. He is apt to stop breathing and need artificial respiration manipulations. If the physician is able to administer oxygen, that will help. Probably the most efficient mixture in treating those affected is a five per cent carbon dioxide and oxygen mixture. Recently Prof. Henderson of Yale University and his co-worker, Dr. Hargrave, proved its efficiency. The hated, stimulates the breathing.

The best treatment in the world against carbon monoxide poisoning is to prevent it. So do not run your motor in a closed garage.

MISS MILLAR WINS PRAISE AS SERIES OF SERVICES ENDS

Miss Eljor Millar, Australian Bible teacher, who has been conducting services for two weeks at First M. E. Church, delivered her closing address Sunday night to a capacity audience. She also spoke Sunday afternoon to a large company of women and girls, on "The Power of Womanhood."

"Miss Millar has used unique methods in her work in Xenia, and has done much good," said the Rev. F. W. Stanton, pastor, First M. E. Church. Dr. V. F. Brown, Trinity M. E. pastor, who co-operated in the services, said "those who have not heard Miss Millar have missed a rich treat."

The evangelist gave out, at her own expense, nearly 100 Testaments. Other Testaments were purchased so that about 150 people have become members of the Pocket Testament League, a world-wide organization.

Speaking Sunday night of her visit to Xenia Miss Millar said "I have greatly enjoyed my work in the city. The pastors have been real co-workers. Mr. Stillings and the choir have rendered valuable service in song and other workers have been faithful and courteous. I feel that my work has not been in vain and in years to come we shall see fruitful results of these meetings."

Sunday morning, the choir presented Miss Millar with a beautiful bouquet. Friday night, the Pocket Testament League also presented her with a Valentine box, containing flowers.

After telling a thrilling Australian love story of a Jewess who was converted to Christ, Miss Millar gave as her closing words, "Read your Bible, say your prayers, do personal work."

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Sunday. The trip was made under threatening skies.

Other legislators, the guests of the chief executive on the yachting party, were: Senator and Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, of Colorado; Representative and Mrs. Bertrand R. Snell, of New York; Representative and Mrs. Henry L. Bowles, of Massachusetts, and Major and Mrs. James F. Coupal.

The junior Ohio senator has been the guest of President and Mrs. Coolidge at the White House in Washington, D. C. for the past week.

BITTER CONFLICT OVER AVIATION IS DUE TO BREAK OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—United Press.—A battle eclipsed only by the Mitchell-War Department dispute over aeronautics, is expected in the House when friends of the former air officer and administration leaders come to grips this session over aviation legislation.

Both groups are prepared for a long struggle, administration followers standing behind the recommendations of the President's Special Air Board and the Mitchell faction pushing the proposal of Maj. Gen. Mason Patrick, Army air chief for a separate air corps in the Army.

Unofficial polls of the House Military committee show that the Patrick plan is likely to receive approval despite objections expressed to it by Secretary of War Davis. Davis has urged the committee to follow the findings of the Morrow Board and avoid legislation providing for radical departure in the defense system. The heels of the Army General Staff also have come down on the Patrick plan but from all indications have not caused the committee to change its apparent favor for the proposal.

The Morrow board suggested creation of another Assistant Secretary of War to handle aviation, leaving the Air Service in its present status. Patrick would have the Air Service given a status similar to the Marine Corps, affording it more independence with the air chief responsible to an Assistant Secretary of Aviation. His plan also calls for increasing the personnel of the air branch.

CALIFORNIA PLANS NEW ROSE CARNIVAL

SAN JOSE, Cal., Feb. 15.—"La Fiesta de las Rosas" is the name officially selected for the festival this year which will set up Santa Clara County as a rival for Portland, Ore., and Pasadena in rose growing honors.

Dates for the local event, which will be joined by other communities of the county, have been fixed as May 20, 21 and 22.

The Spanish name for the festival was chosen because of the historical background of this section. San Jose was an important Spanish settlement of early California long before it became the first capital city of the state, and the very name of the county is Spanish.

Tentative festival plans indicate float designs and costumes of those attending will stress this Spanish influence.

OWEN YOUNG WILL HELP CONFERENCE

GENEVA, Feb. 15.—Owen D. Young, associate of vice president Daves in creation of the "Dawes plan" has accepted an invitation to participate in the preparatory commission of the League of Nations economic conference. His acceptance is interpreted here as indicating that the United States will bring before the conference a command for an investigation to break up world monopoly in certain raw materials.

DRAW COLOR LINE ON OLD FAMILIES

Richmond, Va., Feb. 15.—Patriotic societies of Virginia are protesting against the "racial integrity" bill introduced in the state legislature, which it is said would classify as "colored" some of the oldest and most famous families of the state.

The bill, if enacted, would classify as "colored" all persons with known or demonstrable Indian or negro blood; forbids their marriage with white persons and voids such marriages. The only exceptions would be descendants of Indians and whites married prior to 1619, thus excluding descendants of Pocahontas and John Rolfe from the bill. Some two thousand Virginians, including several judges and members of the legislature would fall under the classification of "colored" it is estimated.

MODISH MITZI—The One-Two-Three Piece Costume

By JAY V. JAY

Now there's the three-piece costume that is becoming increasingly popular. The two-piece dress forms the basis, the coat forms the essential third. Mitzi has one-piece costumes, two-piece costumes and now she is shopping for a very smart three-piece sports costume.

The dress is two-piece. The skirt and blouse are of the material, only the blouse is combined with a shirt vestee of plain silk. The coat is of the same plaid material with fur collars and cuffs. The lines are straight with a flare at the skirt. The more pieces a costume has, the smarter it is believes Mitzi.

Polly, too, is an advocate of the three-piece mode. It seems odd that anything so frail and brief as an evening costume should be in parts one, two and three. But this evening dress is one of the two-piece affairs—very fluffy skirt, tight fitting blouse with a bodice effect.

And then over the dress, there is a cape of tiers of frills starting from a round yoke. It is the same color and decorated with the same trimming as the dress. Polly doesn't care how many pieces there are to an ensemble costume if the effect is as smart as this. The more the smarter.

THE RACE STILL BREEDS MEN HARDY OF SPIRIT

THOSE of us who felt we were experiencing "hardship" when driving a score of miles in an enclosed automobile during the blizzard of a few nights ago have perhaps but little conception of the endurance and hardy spirit required to combat the worst storms of the open plain and the raging sea. Still we are stirred by the authentic stories of how men have met these dangers and hardships and have voluntarily risked their lives in the bare chance that they might save the lives of others. We can join in the Cincinnati Times-Star's editorial tribute to these latter whose recent achievements compare with those of the vikings of old:

"Wild tales are coming in from the sea where winds and waves are wrestling as sailors say they never had seen them do before. Mattered ships are coming in from the sea, some of them as much as two days late; the best that the huge Leviathan could do the day the storm was at its worst was a log of seventy-eight miles. Two ships, at least, will not come in at all. The British freighter Laristan broke up, with a loss of twenty-five men, the German liner Bremen rescuing six. The British freighter Antiope was left a wallowing hulk in the track of navigation but its twenty-five men were safely transferred to the American liner President Roosevelt. The rescue effected amid the clamor of the elements, after a succession of vain attempts in which the American vessel lost half its lifeboats, is an epic of the sea. In achieving it the Roosevelt also lost two of its own sailors. Let their names be remembered. Ernest Heitman, boatswain's mate, New York, and Uno Wirtana, master-at-arms. Finland, were what a Times-Star writer called them yesterday, 'two men.'

"Even here, far inland, we know the fell clutch of winter. But on the open Atlantic the winds and waves have held such a rendezvous as happens not twice in a lifetime. Hardy of spirit was he, said Horace, who first launched a keel upon the deep. Hardy, indeed, are they to whose resolute spirit all seasons are alike when they go down to the sea in ships."

PYRAMIDS.

PYRAMIDS rather inspire the soul with their colossal appearance. They remind us of the smallness of our own physical self and we get to retrospecting of the old days and wondering as to the civilization of another day. But pyramids are not practical; they accomplish little in the way of improving the world, of making this a better place to live in.

The Miami (Fla.) Tribune tells of a proposed American pyramid as follows:

"America, too, is to have a pyramid. But not as a tomb for any man. Rather a tomb for American civilization. The builder, William Hope Harvey, of Benton county, Arkansas, is certain that the present civilization is doomed, and is determined that civilized man at some distant future time shall have less difficulty in discovering and understanding it than we have had in regard to the ancient Romans, Greeks, Egyptians, Babylonians and Chaldeans.

"So Mr. Harvey is going to build a pyramid 130 feet to the top of the shaft of the most durable metal obtainable, inscribed: 'Go below and find a record of, and the cause of, the death of a former civilization.' The future discoverers then will drill down through the concrete and steel and come to a crypt in which have been stored books printed on enduring paper and sealed in glass jars, giving a detailed account of our scientific progress, knowledge and mechanical devices, with other volumes to help in deciphering the language. It will be emphasized in those records that this age, though rich in scientific knowledge, was poor in statesmanship and not really civilized.

"Now, isn't that a curious thing for a man to do?"

THE "HUMANITARIANS."

PROFESSIONAL vegetarians, preferring plant food to meat, would dissuade or prevent others from eating meat, and, having convinced themselves that they are so far ahead of their day that vegetarian legislation is impossible in this unenlightened age, they have consecrated their lives to the "education" of the meat-eating rabble.

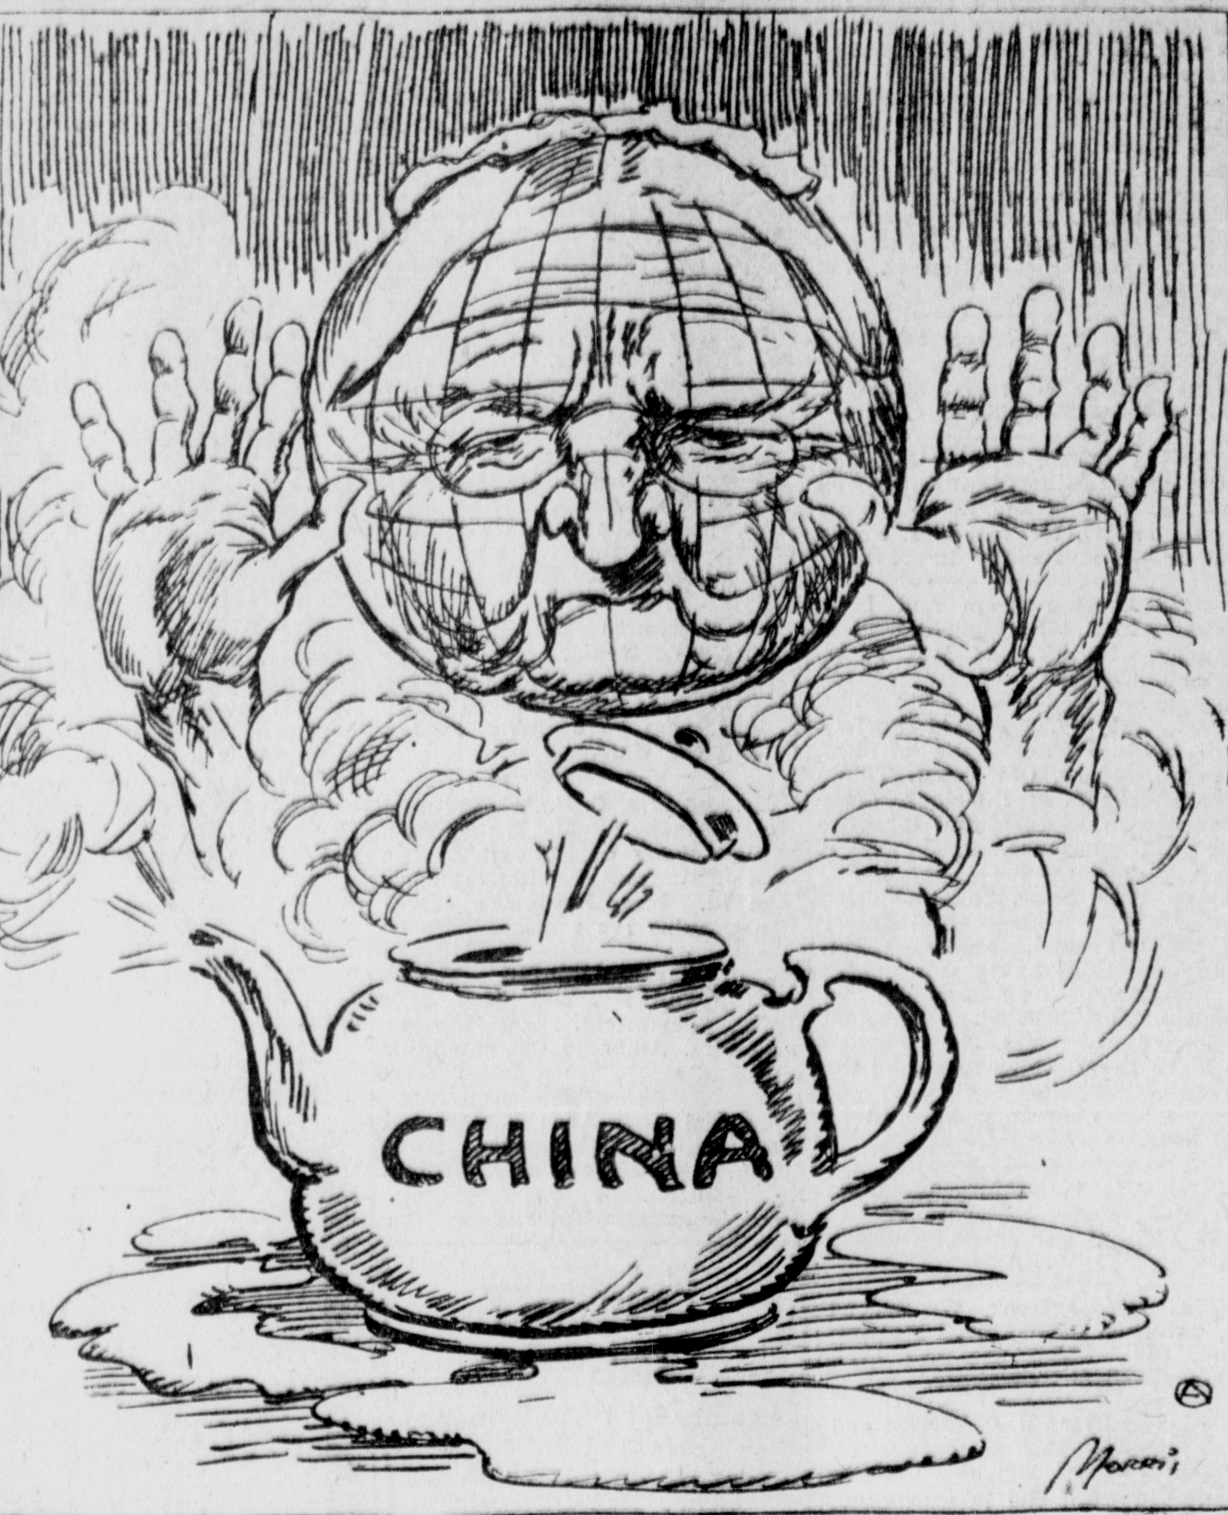

Having worn out their antiquated argument that meat isn't good for human consumption, the plant-eaters are now appealing to the public to spare the lives of the millions of innocent beasts which annually are sacrificed to the gratification of human appetite.

Can't the meat eaters in recrimination charge the vegetarians with slaughtering hapless and harmless plants to satisfy their hunger. Have the vegetarians scientific proof that because plants do not betray outward evidence of pain and suffering that death is less painful to them than to dumb animals?

Of course potatoes, corn and beans do not cry out when severed from their mother stalks. Neither does an eel struggle in the agonies of death. Nor an oyster. Nor the lobster. The beet can not bellow but it can bleed, and does, copiously. Is the housewife who rends the pulsating heart from the stalk of celery or dismembers the head of cabbage less cruel than the wife who pounds a steak or broils a chicken?

It is the fear of death, not death itself, that is painful. Will the rapacious devourers of the flora prove that the beasts upon which humanity subsists possess this fear of death to a greater degree than do the vegetables in the backyard?

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast	Luncheon	Dinner
Oranges Cereal Broiled Slice of Ham Muffins Coffee	Spanish Omelet Celery Salad Jam Cocoa Dinner Brown Beef Stew (with Potatoes and Onions) Carrots	French Dressing Steamed Fruit Pudding Hard Sauce New Dishes for This Week: Brown Beef Stew: Buy three pounds of shin beef. Have the butcher trim the fat off the bone cracked. Remove as much of the meat as possible from the bone, then brown both meat and bone in three tablespoons of beef drippings. Add three large, peeled onions sliced, and continue to fry till the onions are a light brown. Now add two quarts of cold water and bring to a boil. Let continue to simmer for three hours, or till the meat is very tender. Remove bones and skim off any fat. Add enough potatoes to serve your family (these should have been previously boiled in salted water for ten minutes, then drained). Continue to boil the stew till the potatoes are tender—perhaps 15 minutes. Season with salt and pepper to suit individual taste and, just before serving, thicken the stew liquor with flour mixed to a paste with cold water (allowing about one heaping teaspoon of the flour for each cupful of the stew liquor). Serve on a platter with the thickened gravy poured over the meat and potatoes. Toward the end of the cooking of the stew, add additional boiling water if the original amount has evaporated so greatly that there would be almost no gravy.

Ham With Kidney Beans: Soak one and one-half cups of dried kidney beans overnight and in the morning add one-fourth teaspoon of baking soda, boiling water to cover, and let stew till nearly tender. Now turn the beans, with what remains of the water in which they were cooked, into a baking dish; add one and one-half cups of diced uncooked celery, one large onion peeled and minced, one teaspoon of salt, one cup of minced leftover ham, one teaspoon of sugar, a pinch of pepper, and one cup of sour milk. If the liquor from the beans does not nearly cover these ingredients, add boiling water almost to the top of ingredients. Cover the dish and slip it into a medium hot oven to bake for two hours, then remove cover and bake 20 minutes longer. Serve very hot. (Today's menu calls for breakfast ham. Provide sufficient so that you will have one cupful of cooked ham left over for this dish the following day).

FOREVER

Forever is a long time, the life of moon and stars,
A longer life than churches know,
Or prison gates and bars,
And I have vowed to love her,
forever and a day.
A vow that knows no changing or crumbling or decay.

Forever is a long time, the life of sea and tide,
No calendar can mark it, no seasons can divide.
It has no bitter ending, let life bring what it may,
My love must last forever, forever and a day.

Though buildings fall in ruins and earthly splendors fade,
Though death shall separate us,
Though fashions change and fancies sweep all charms we know away,
Our love must last forever, forever and a day.

Games, music and a contest furnished the amusement for the evening. Miss Mary Ruth Williams was winner of the prize, a beautiful box of stationery, having made the most words out of the word "Valentine."

Greene County History

THE TOLL ROADS

Nearly half a century ago Greene County was a network of the now obsolete toll roads.

It cost the early settlers as much to travel those pay-as-you-go-roads in the nineteenth century as it does to travel on steam or electric trains of today.

It is uncertain when the first toll road appeared in the United States but one was recorded in Pennsylvania in 1792 and other colonies are thought to have had them even before that date.

Ohio is credited with its first toll road in 1809 in Trumbull County. It is not certain when the first one appeared in Greene County but they were in operation early in 1830.

During that decade the general assembly authorized county commissioners to assist in the building of turnpikes by purchasing stock in private companies. It was not until 1880 that the general assembly abolished the law providing for public money to be expended through these private concerns.

The legislature, in repealing the act permitting county commissioners to appropriate funds for toll roads, made provisions whereby commissioners could purchase roads already owned by private companies.

A law was passed in 1910 making it mandatory for all counties to take over all toll roads within their limits.

Counties were further authorized to issue bonds for this purpose if they could not otherwise obtain the money, and it is a matter of record a number of counties in Ohio are paying interest on bonds issued for the sole purpose of buying toll roads, and which in some counties do not mature until 1930.

Today's Talks

TALKERS

Every day listeners grow more fascinating to me. I like them because I can ask them question after question—and learn something.

Continual talkers not only throw off a great deal of chaff, but they take up your time with the saying of much that means nothing to you.

I like to take conversation as I do my meal—by being handed a menu and then selecting what I think my mood and appetite demand. Our moods have much to do with what we eat.

And so to sit of an evening and hear nothing spoken but what you have stimulated or sought is a rare treat indeed. It gives you something on which to build new thoughts and new ideas.

Talkers are not big workers—ever. America has a President who is beloved and trusted—because he doesn't talk all the time. He does enough right along to warrant his fellow citizens in believing that he will grow into the doing of better and better things as the occasion demands.

Admiral Dewey was a great sea fighter and a great man. When they told him at Manila Bay that it was filled with mines, he said: "Give my love to the mines for words that meant, translated, his indifference and go ahead!" But when he got back home—a national hero—and people who were not his real friends tried to get him into political office, he said things that did not fit his life of doing and not talking. And so he almost lost over night the glory of a lifetime which he had honorably earned.

Sometimes I think that it would be a wise thing to have somebody else always do our talking for us. That would give us more time in which to do many of the big things we hope to do—done.

But be charitable to all talkers. They are not so bad as sometimes they sound. And they often mean only a part of what they say.

Editor of Republican and Gazette:

I thought I would write you a few lines in regard to Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, 1809, born near Hodgenville, county seat of what is now known as LaRue County, Ky. At nineteen years of age he raised a company for the Black Hawk War and was elected captain of the company and on the fifteenth of April 1861, he issued his first proclamation as president and was assassinated April 14, 1865, in Ford's Theater, Washington, D. C., by John Wilkes Booth.

I saw sometime ago you published a man's name as the last survivor to Lincoln's death. He was mistaken for I was one of the escorts in Chicago and from there to Springfield, Ill.

Mr. Editor, you published a few days past, an article in regard to the first court held in Greene County being in Xenia. That may be true for Judicial Court. I just now found your article and you have Owen Davis' name for whipping a man for stealing a hog. That Owen Davis was my great uncle. We have papers to show the facts.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

SALLY and TOM PORTER have separated, quarrelling because Sally has insisted on returning to her work as a public stenographer after their marriage. The fact that she did so in order to pay their bills when he lost his job makes no difference to Tom.

SALLY finds other men ready to help her forget Tom, but she cannot put him out of her heart. At last she realizes that her life will always be incomplete without him, and when a letter comes from his sister.

EMILY, saying that Tom is devoting himself to another girl, Sally decides to make one more effort to straighten out the tangle between them.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XLIV—THE FIGHT BEGINS

SALLY started out bravely the next morning, determined that she would get some typing to do at home, then find a home in which to do it. She wanted to answer rather discouragingly, "You look pretty well? Been away? You got married, didn't you?"

Sally sensed the other woman's jealousy in her tone. She smiled, the cheerful little smile that was one of her greatest charms.

"Yes, I've been away, working hard, and yes, I got married, but I've got to support myself," she replied.

"Oh! One more marriage that didn't take?" Mrs. Eaton was more cordial. Sally resented the woman's "misery-loves-company" attitude. But she gave no hint of her own feelings, she had worked too long in a world that is not overkind to girls who support themselves to think that she could afford the luxury of resentment.

"Well, it didn't exactly take," she answered. "And I'd be most awfully grateful to you if you can help me."

"I'll do what I can," Mrs. Eaton told her, more encouragingly than she had spoken before. "We get manuscripts of books and things like that once in a while, and it really doesn't pay me to have them sent to me. What's your address?"

Sally gave her the name of the cheap little hotel where she was staying, and went away.

To another office, then to another—up through huge skyscrapers in elevators full of busy looking people, people who all had jobs, she felt, she was just a "help me" where other girls were working. She left her name at several of them, and also at two employment agencies in the hope that somebody but go back and pound a typewriter again!

For the thousandth time she wondered how they would have made out if she hadn't gone back to work. Tom would have just had to support them, somehow. They'd have got along, of course, people did. They'd have run up terrible bills, but those would have been paid by now—and she and Tom would have had each other.

In that moment Sally, lonely and tired and wretched, was ready to give in under the weight of trouble that bore down on her slender shoulders. After all, what could she do if Tom had really turned from her to that other girl who had gone up to his sister's with him? She had always come back to her belief that Tom loved her—maybe she'd been wrong!

"Well, I'm going to find out whether I'm wrong or not!" she announced at last, to the grimy stained walls of the little hotel bedroom. "I'll make this one big effort and then if I lose out—" They'd

She didn't finish that sentence. She went to the offices again the next day, and the next. "Any work today?" she would ask, as cheerfully as if it didn't really matter. She got a few things to do, a manuscript to copy, a batch of form letters that Mrs. Eaton didn't care about doing.

Sally worked conscientiously as if she hadn't another interest in the world but those letters. But whenever she stopped for a moment to rest her arms and back, the thought of Tom would come into her mind. Did he still love her? When would she see him again?

Tomorrow—Home Again.

Ernie Nevers from the college football field and enticed three of the greatest girl swimmers in the United States from the amateur ranks.

Pro mactural returns, the promoters lost money on their investment in Grange and Nevers but the value of the publicity derived was worth infinitely more than it cost them.

The surprising way in which star athletes can be used for publicity purposes was shown recently in southern France, the "Florida" of the continent, when Helen Willis and Mile, Suzanne Lenglen were playing tag, with the French girl holding the role of "you catch me."

It was openly charged in Nice that hotel men in the Riviera district had influence enough to bring about the delay to the very last minute of the season of any possibility that the two girls could meet for the world's tennis championship.

They, it was charged, realized, the world wide publicity that the presence of Miss Willis was attracting to the Riviera district and they wanted to keep it going. They feared that if they met in one of the earlier tournaments of the season the American champion would be beaten and the rest of the season would be a bust.

Indefinite postponement of any chance that the two stars could meet could be brought about in a perfectly legitimate if slightly unethical way.

All that had to be done was to announce that the English ball would be used in every tournament but the last one of the season as the American girl had let it be known that she would not play with the English ball and she had been given to understand that in practically all of the winter tournaments the French and American ball was used.

There was no disposition to criticize Miss Willis or suspect Mile. Lenglen. No one questions the honesty and pure amateurism of the American champion and if she did become a pawn in the game it was the result of her inexperience.

REPORTED DYING WOMAN DAUGHTER OF RUSSIAN CZAR

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Berlin's colony of Russian monarchists has split into two hostile camps, all because of a mysterious woman. The conflict centers around the identity of Mme. von Tchaikovsky—or is she the Princess Anastasia, daughter of Nicholas, late Czar of all the Russians?

At any rate she is a tragic and pitiful figure. Her forehead bears the mark of a bullet wound, and on her bosom is the relic of a bayonet wound. These marks are adduced as evidence to support her contention that she is actually the Czar's daughter and that she escaped from the gruesome scene in a Siberian village in 1917, after being left alone with the murdered Czar and his family.

The Russian royal court physician Professor Rudneff is firm in his conviction that his patient is none other than Princess Anastasia. He bases his belief upon an amazing circumstance.

On the day of the outbreak of the war, August 1, 1914, Dr. Rudneff was strolling past the royal palace in Petersburg in the company of his colleague, Professor Feodoroff. Suddenly, Professor Feodoroff looked up.

"Look," he cried, "Princess Anastasia and Princess Tatiana are throwing confetti."

Indeed, the two royal children, playing on the balcony, were tossing bits of paper on the passers-by.

Eight years later, when Professor Rudneff was called to a Berlin sanatorium to examine Mme. von Tchaikovsky, he asked her whether she remembered what she did on the day the world war broke out. The lady, somewhat abashed, replied:

"My sister and I were naughty. We stood on the balcony and tossed confetti on the pedestrians below."

This striking coincidence is cited as grave evidence in the identification of Mme. Tchaikovsky. On the other hand, the former governess of the Czarist family denies emphatically that Mme. von Tchaikovsky and Princess Anastasia are the same. To this, the reply is forthcoming that years of terrible suffering have wholly changed the Princess's appearance.

Meanwhile, the alleged Princess is dying of tuberculosis in a Berlin hospital.

Her opponents point out that Mme. von Tchaikovsky possesses no knowledge of English, which used to be spoken frequently at the defunct Russian court.

Others insist that she has succumbed to amnesia, and that privation and shocks have obliterated her memory. It is stated that during a recent operation, when emerging from the anesthetic, Mme. von Tchaikovsky murmured "Mother!" in distinct English.

It is now feared that the lady is doomed to death before the mystery of her life is unveiled.

Sisters Press Suit for Clark Millions

Attorneys for (1) Mrs. Alma Hines, Orrick, Mo.; (2) Mrs. Addie Miller, Denver; and (3) Mrs. Effie McWilliams, Clarksdale, Mo.; are organizing a battle to get a share of millions left by late William A. Clark, U. S. senator and copper magnate, who, it is claimed, was their father by a marriage that invalidated his wedding to Anna E. La Chappelle, to whom he left his fortune. The widow and four children recognized by his will as executors, are preparing to fight the suit, declaring that the senator had only one wife. At top the magnate is shown with Mrs. Chappelle Clark, and at his right is Kate L. Brooks Clark, mother of the children bringing the suit. Also shown are Oliver Hines (4), husband of the Orrick, Mo., claimant, and their home.

"Not Possible To Classify" By Mack Sauer

DARK HORSE IS NEW CHAMPION

These Hammer Club men don't know how to win in this morning's mail comes a letter from a liar that is a liar. He is the champion. His letter will prove to you that he deserves the blue ribbon.

Dear Mack:
Have been reading in recent issues of Xenia's only newspaper many tales of the grand old hunting dogs, which have reminded me of Uncle Silas Scruggins, aged 126, of Kentucky, who was considered a mighty nimrod in his day.

Uncle Sil had a gun with an 80 inch barrel which he loaded with shot and powder. He had a trick of slinging his gun while shooting it to make the shot scatter, on rare occasions killing as many as 16 rabbits at one shot. When he wanted to make a long shot, he would push against the butt of the gun with a quick lurch of his right shoulder. He claimed he increased the killing distance of his firearm several miles by this method. He mixed salt with his shot so that the rabbits would not spoil before he got to them.

Si would often shoot parties until the barrel of his gun became red hot. Then he would tie the gun to a partridge he had trained for the occasion and turn it loose with the result that when it flew threw the air, other birds would light on the barrel and burn to death.

Speaking of fishing, Si used to go to a river, dive down into the water and make a noise like an angle worm. When the fish came up to him, he would strangle them and put them in a bucket of water which he carried under the surface with him. In a few minutes they would drown. One day he came out of the water with two candy buckets full of fish. Two beauties, each about ten feet long, jumped out after him and followed him home.

"I've caught all their children," he explained, "and they know I'll get them sooner or later, so they decided to follow me home."

Yours truly,
I. WILL TELLUM

The man who thought a buggy was good enough

In the old days, a solid, conservative citizen might sniff and tell you he didn't read advertising.

He didn't think so much of the horseless carriage, either. The telephone was newfangled, and an insult to the United States mails.

As for radio, aeroplanes, wireless photography—if they had been born then, he probably would have thought them a bit immoral.

But he's changed. He's been educated. His point of view has been made broader and more modern. He has been civilized—by the automobile, the telephone, radio, advertising.

Every single one has opened up new paths for him, taught him new things. Advertising, especially advertising tells him the newest things to wear, the best things to eat. Advertising tells his wife how to make a home up to date and attractive. Advertising tells him the prices to pay for things he buys, saves him from the old-fashioned ways of doing business—helps him live well, keeps him modern.

Advertising can help you. The advertisements in this newspaper are here to tell you many things that make life more comfortable, more interesting, happier. Read them faithfully. They'll keep you abreast of the times. They'll prevent you from becoming the type of old foggy who—sniff!—doesn't read advertising.

Advertising is the key to modernity

SENTENCE TO WORKS MAY BE SUSPENDED ON PROMISE TO PAY

Impudence of William Profit, colored, Delaware, O., former resident of Cedarville, wanted for nearly a year on a non-support charge, in seeking information of Probate Judge S. C. Wright regarding his recently divorced wife, may cost him a fine of $10 and costs and a term of six months in the Dayton Workhouse.

Profit pleaded guilty to non-support before Judge Wright in Probate Court Saturday and was given the above fine and sentence. Inclined toward leniency, Judge Wright announced he will parole Profit providing he is able to furnish $800 bond and contribute $8 per week toward the support of his former wife and children. He is employed in a restaurant in Delaware and was given a few days of grace in which to raise the money. Profit has been the object of a long search on the non-support charge. He inadvertently played into the hands of local authorities who were unaware of his whereabouts when he wrote Judge Wright concerning his wife wanting to know if she had divorced him. She has since re-married.

The judge immediately wrote to Delaware authorities who arrested Profit. He was returned to Greene County on charges contained in a new warrant sworn out by his former spouse.

LISTEN TO THIS, ED—"AFTER MY HUSBAND WAS OUSTED FROM HIS CLUB, HE LAUNCHED INTO A FRENZIED ECONOMY CAMPAIGN—STINTING AND SCRAPING AT EVERY TURN—EVEN TO CUTTING DOWN THE MILK SUPPLY TO ONE PINT—IT BECAME UNBEARABLE—I CRIED AND WORRIED UNTIL I WAS BESIDE MYSELF—BUT WHAT TO DO—IN MY HEART I STILL LOVED HIM—HE HAD NOT ALWAYS BEEN SO STINGY—I GREW DESPERATE—"

"ONE DAY I SAW A STORY CONTEST ADVERTISED IN A MAGAZINE—YOU DIDN'T HAVE TO BE A PROFESSIONAL WRITER—SIMPLY RELATE THE DRAMATIC EXPERIENCES OF YOUR LIFE AS YOU WOULD TELL THEM TO A SYMPATHETIC FRIEND—I DID SO—AND, LO AND BEHOLD! A CHECK CAME—I SHOWED IT TO MY HUSBAND—"

"AT FIRST HE COULD NOT UNDERSTAND—THEN HIS EYES DIMMED AND HE CLASPED ME TO HIS ARMS—THAT WAS TWO MONTHS AGO—NOW THE MILKMAN LEAVES A HALF PINT OF CREAM BESIDES A QUART OF MILK EVERY MORNING—"
